| February 1 st and 9 th     | Native Plant OrderDeadline andDistribution |

Send us your requests early--supplies are limited and some species are already unavailable. Priority was given to requests received prior to December 15th, although we will accept requests until February 1st! The Distribution date is Saturday, February 9th, 2019 at multiple locations throughout the watershed.

Siuslaw Watershed Council's 20th Annual Native Plant Giveaway!

It's not too late to place your order for the annual plant giveaway!

River, and lakeside landowners are eligible to receive up to 300 free native plants from us this year, free of charge! Native plants growing along streams help reduce erosion, filter nutrients, and keep the water cool for salmon, trout and other aquatic species. Native plants are adapted to specific site conditions; we have some resources available to help you identify which plants will thrive alongside your backyard creek or lake! Siuslaw Watershed Council staff can also help advise you on plant selection and placement.

Dear Earthling:

This your Mother (Earth) writing to remind you to not forget me as you write your New Year's Resolutions. This may sound like nagging, but you need my help to do a thorough job. You've been throwing away far too much plastics, which ends up in my oceans. Please resolve to do a better job in 2019.

You've got kids or grandkids? No? Call your nearest school; they may have some extras. Just kidding; yuck, yuck. Call the school to see if they have an environmental program you can volunteer for.

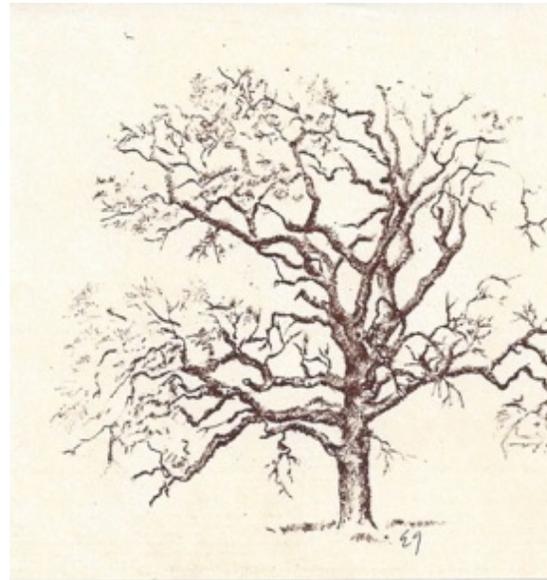

Got a garden? Great! Resolve to plant an extra row for less fortunate neighbors. Local gardening is a great way to help my environment and overall temperatures. And while I'm on that topic, please stop using the phrase "global warming"; it sounds warm and fuzzy. I prefer "global climate disruption". And remember to thank my friend the Sun for providing all that energy.

Speaking of energy, you've been going overboard in burning fossil fuels. Leave your car at home and try some other means of transportation. I'll talk about that next month.

Uncle Keith's Corner

With the "recession" developing I was appalled to learn how so many business and corporations were operating so prevalently on borrowed money. I thought it was only incompetent persons and families that made such grave errors. Well now we know the risks of buying into the capitalistic dream at the expense of our futures instead of "living within our means" as they used to say, or "living sustainably" as the modern lingo puts it.

The Deadwood Care Team is in need of and accepting donations for costs related to helping neighbors with varied needs. To donate firewood, appliances, stuff, time, or money contact Maryanne at 964-3099 or Keith at 964-3502.

The New Curmudgeon

As our "holiday" season passes, there is cause to reflect on how our affects effected us on an individual, as a group large and small and as a culture (if we claim one- or any). quality comes in many forms for sure.

"quantity has a quality all its own" as Joe Stalin said in WW2 having sacrificed 11 million soldiers and 20 million civilians in a giant land grab. Was the quality worth the quantity? if you ask the peasant who ate the paper off his wall to survive it only to find that, as usual, only certain people benefited; they would probably say things are pretty much the same. the class system exists, worldwide, in every level of endeavor be it financial, social or religious. With exceptions, of course, there is one thing the "haves" don't have and that is compassion for the "have nots". That attitude undergoes a notable shift during this season, if only for the efforts of organizing groups that channel the generosity of those feeling big enough to share. For some it's real, for others it's just facade. Where does the real quality lie? it lies in what of it comes from the heart- in the attitude in which it is given- and that does not relate to quantity- and in this exchange the giver will benefit as does the givee. James W

Women's March

Join the Women's Wave march and celebration Jan. 19

Florence ORganizes, a local organization that addresses the needs of the community through health care, the environment, public education and human rights welcomes the community to join the Women's Wave Saturday, Jan. 19. The day will begin with a Women's March at noon, starting from the Florence United Methodist Church, 333 Kingwood Street. Anyone who supports women and their rights is welcome, and participants are encouraged to bring signs with positive messages.

The Wave continues with lunch and a celebration at 1:30 p.m., along with a fundraiser for the new "Heart of the Coast" Housing Alliance, at the Florence Senior Center, 1570 Kingwood Street.

"Our march is in collaboration with the national Women's March (Women's Wave), promoting equal rights and economic equity for women and health care for women and families," said FOR member and organizer Leonora Kent. "Our celebration/fundraiser will support and promote our new "Heart of the Coast" Housing Alliance to help us bring affordable housing to Florence."

The celebration will include a silent auction with many items and services from local businesses. Lunch will feature food from local restaurants, and music will be provided by local musicians Maree Beers (accompanied by Rhianna) and Sunny Sundstrom. We'll round out our joyful day with Bollywood dancing led by Eileen Angilletta and a "sock hop" to rock 'n' roll music! The event is free, with a suggested donation of $5-10 for Heart of the Coast.
